

Pat's Pudding

(Not the same as the pounds on pudding you have heard about.)

Ingredients:

- 1 - can evaporated milk
- 1 - package of cream cheese
- 2 - packets of Knox unflavored gelatin
- 2 - egg yolks only from large sized eggs. Do not use the egg whites.
- 2 - Cups of water

Equal can be used to sweeten with no side effects and the kittens/cats love the sweet taste. Beware of using real sugar. It can cause loose stools. If you want use sugar then only 1/2 teaspoon.

Goal is to get this blended as even as possible

Large bowl, add 2 cups of hot water, add 2 packets of Knox unflavored Gelatin. Mix well.

You can either let your cream cheese get room temp or even microwave it till soft. (DO NOT over COOK IT). or it will not blend into the water and milk.

After cream cheese has been softening, add to your bowl. Mix well, if the cream cheese still has not blended, you can place over a very low heat and stir constantly till blended. (Again do not over heat)

Now take this mixture and add your can milk slowly add your egg yolks. Keep stirring.

Now is the time to add your sweetness. I prefer the equal as it adds sweet taste and doesn't have the sugar that can cause loose bowls.

You can store this in many ways. Either in small bowls and freeze and take out as needed. it will liquefy when warmed. Some people like to put into ice trays for small servings and then pop out and store in a freezer bag. This way you can take out one cube at a time as needed.
